Disclaimer

Please note that this report relates to findings observed on the specific date set out above. Our report is not a representative portrayal of the experiences of all service users and staff, only an account of what was observed and contributed at the time.

What is an Enter and View?

Part of the local Healthwatch programme is to carry out Enter and View visits. Local Healthwatch representatives carry out these visits to health and social care services to find out how they are being run and make recommendations where there are areas for improvement. The Health and Social Care Act allows local Healthwatch authorised representatives to observe service delivery and talk to service users, their families, and carers on premises such as hospitals, residential homes, GP practices, dental surgeries, optometrists, and pharmacies. Enter and View visits can happen if people tell us there is a problem with a service but, equally, they can occur when services have a good reputation - so we can learn about and share examples of what they do well from the perspective of people who experience the service first hand.

Healthwatch Enter and Views are not intended to specifically identify safeguarding issues. However, if safeguarding concerns arise during a visit they are reported in accordance with Healthwatch safeguarding policies. If at any time an authorised representative observes anything that they feel uncomfortable about they need to inform their lead who will inform the service manager, ending the visit. In addition, if any member of staff wishes to raise a safeguarding issue about their employer they will be directed to the CQC, where they are protected by legislation, if they raise a concern.

Purpose of visit and strategic drivers

Brook House Care Centre is located in Thamesmead, Greenwich. Brook House Care Centre opened in 2002. The home has been registered with a new provider, Bondcare (London) Limited, in October 2017. The previous provider Lifestyle Care Management Ltd, also known as Orchard Care Homes from November 2015 until October 2017. This was our first inspection of the registered provider at this location.

The latest CQC (Care Quality Commission) inspection report was published on 8 June 2017. The service had been in Special Measures. Services that are in Special Measures are kept under review and inspected again within six months by CQC.

This unannounced inspection took place from 26 to 28 April 2017. At the last inspection on 27 and 28 September 2016, we found serious concerns at the home and it was rated Inadequate overall and placed in special measures. We took enforcement action in relation to some of the more serious concerns we found relating to staffing levels, risks to people's safety not being identified or monitored and the providers quality assurance systems not identifying or acting on issues. We placed a restriction on the provider's registration to prevent any new admissions to the home and to ensure the provider sent us regular update about staff training.

We expect services to make significant improvements within this timeframe. During this inspection the service demonstrated to us that improvements have been made and is no longer rated as inadequate overall or in any of the key questions. Therefore, this service is now out of Special Measures.

Brook House Care Centre is registered with CQC to provide accommodation and nursing care for up to 74 adults, including adults with disabilities and people with dementia. At the time of this inspection the home was providing nursing care and support to 58 people.

Overview and CQC Inspections

Latest CQC inspection report for Brook House: 8 June 2017²

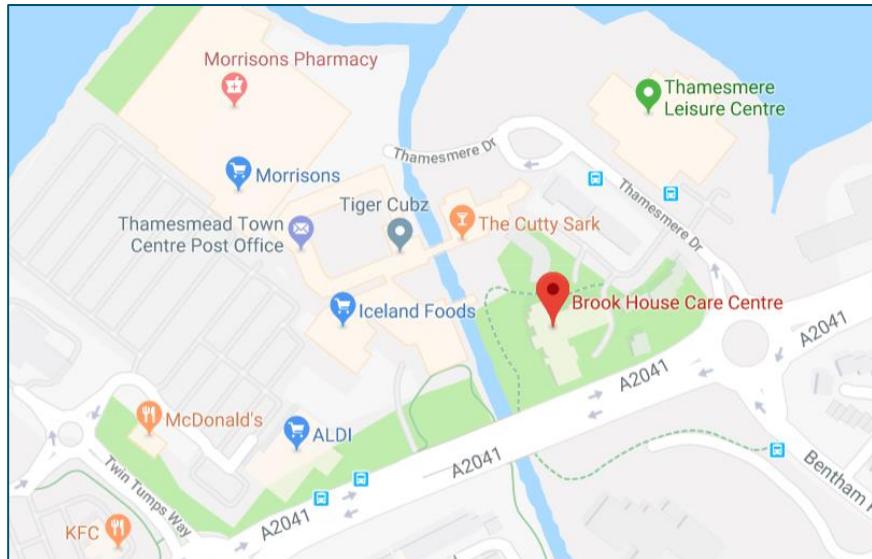

Methodology

We created an observation form for Authorised Representatives to complete, which gathered their view of the service from a patient's point of view. We also spoke to resident and staff if they wanted to share information with us.

We made sure to check with the staff if there were individuals who we should not approach or who are unable to give informed consent. As a Healthwatch Greenwich Authorised Representatives, we are there as lay persons, and are not considered to have the expertise to know whether a patient has the capacity to give informed consent to having their views presented.

Summary of findings

Location

Brook House Care Centre is located in Thamesmead, Greenwich and has bus stops located nearby. Thamesmead Shopping Centre is a short walking distance from the home. When we arrived, we noted rubbish in the driveway leading up to the home as well as some old furniture which looked like it was ready to be taken to the recycling centre. The car park is large and had a good number of spaces, including accessible bays, for residents and visitors. There is level access from the car park to the front entrance.

Views of the car park at Brook House Care Centre

- Recommendation 1: Ensure the car park is kept clear and free from waste.

Brook House has three floors; on the ground floor is the Diane Suite which is for young people with physical disabilities, on the first floor is older people nursing care in the Elizabeth Suite and dementia care is in the Victoria Suite on the 2nd floor. The home is fully accessible and there are two lifts which access all floors.

Reception areas

Brook House has a secure entrance and manned reception. When we arrived, the door was answered very promptly and welcomed warmly. All visitors are required to sign in upon arrival for security. The reception area is clean and neat with information for visitors about the home and upcoming events. There was no dedicated notice board, but posters of events were displayed on the door to the home. There is a unisex toilet and a drinking water fountain available in the reception area for visitors while they wait.

Views of the reception area

Public areas

These areas were clean, uncluttered and neat but décor was tired and could do with refreshing. There are nice colour themes which differentiate the suites from one another. The furniture is well maintained and kept Lighting throughout the building was bright and well lit. The home felt warm and homely, but more could be done to ensure the interior decoration is brought up to a high quality.

Corridors

The corridors are wide, with good flooring through out the building. There are wooden hand rails, and these are painted, however this is not always in a contrasting colour so not always clear for people with visual impairments. Also, we noted some paint chipping on these rails from wheelchairs or trolleys which needs to be repainted.

- Recommendation 2: Ensure all hand rails are in contrasting colours to the walls and that they are free from paint chipping or damage. If these rails were made from a more durable material (i.e. plastic) they would need less maintenance.

Views of two corridors at Brook House

The signage to the emergency exits, as well as the communal spaces, is clear. Many of the doors included pictorial representation for residents with dementia. All cleaning cupboards and storage rooms were locked and only accessible by staff. The corridors on the different floors have clear colour themes and are decoration to distinguish them from one another.

Two examples of pictorial representation signage

Toilet and bathrooms

Most of the toilets and bathrooms have been newly refurbished and were clean and fresh. Some toilets still require refurbishment and we noted loose taps and unfinished elements in the new furnishings. The cleaning rotas were up to date and displayed in the rooms. There are handrails, and these are dark blue which makes them easy to see against the walls.

One newly refurbished bathroom with toilet at Brook House.

- Recommendation 3: Ensure all toilets and bathrooms are of an equal standard and all fittings are fixed and safe.

Lounge, dining room and other public areas

The lounge and dining rooms have a nice warm and cosy feeling, but the décor is tired and needs refurbishment. Seating in the lounge is communal with a good number of seating available. A TV was on and being watched by residents while others were seen chatting between themselves. The dining rooms were quite sparse with only small tables which were spread out which does not seem to promote social interaction at meal times.

Resident's rooms

The resident's rooms are of a good size and all have en suite wet rooms which include a toilet. They all include a window and radiator, and the temperature felt suitable. Each room has a lockable cupboard and the rooms are lockable from the inside. There is a call bell that can be reached if the resident needs to get the attention of a staff member. Rooms can be personalised, and residents can have a TV or phone installed if they would like.

Décor and layout of two vacant rooms

The doors have plaques which are created for each resident's room. They include a photo, the name they prefer to be called and the name of their keyworker. This makes the room easier to identify for the residents and their visitors as well as establishing a connection with the individual.

Staff and resident's interactions

We noted a great connection between staff and the residents at Brook House. Even though we were notified there was a shortage of staff we saw they were present with residents throughout the home. All staff members wear uniforms and name badges. We did not see the photos and names of the key staff members displayed for residents and visitors to see.

- Recommendation 4: Include photos and names of key staff for each suite.

We saw staff talking to the residents with respect and kindness. They listened to individuals and it was felt they knew them on a personal level. Calls for the rooms were not constant but were responded to promptly. The environment was friendly and relaxed we did not witness any rushing around.

A resident's meeting takes place every 3 months where feedback is gathered about upcoming activities and menu changes. However due to the change of care provider of Ashgreen House these have not taken place for a while.

- Recommendation 5: Ensure resident's meetings take place to ensure a regular feedback for the resident's.

Care, kindness, and compassion

The residents can choose what time they wake and all the resident's we saw were up and appropriately dressed. The resident's we spoke to were happy and there were activities going on for people to take part in. The care quality commission (CQC) report is displayed in the reception area and feedback is encouraged. We were incredibly impressed that all staff we spoke to had great passion about the work they do and go over and above for the residents at Brook House.

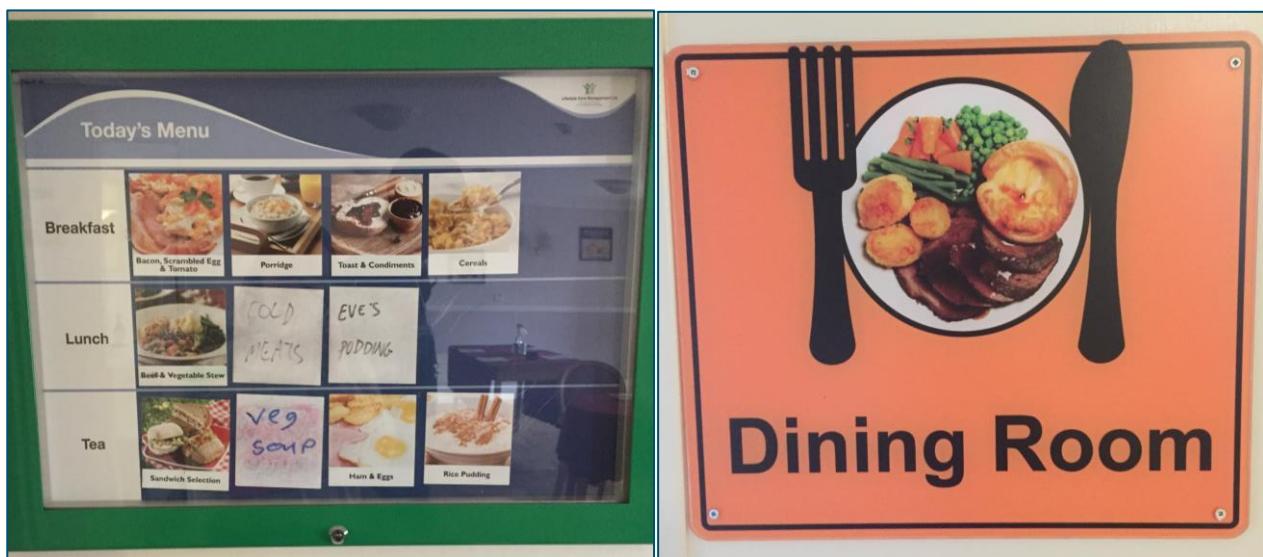

Primary care is currently provided by Clover Health Centre, Woolwich. It was previously supplied by Gallions Reach and most recently Lakeside Medical Practice but as this is a Bexley GP and not a Greenwich GP it has recently changed. Since the change there has been a notable change in the level of service. They come every Wednesday, Thursday and Friday but it can be very difficult to get hold of them during the week or if we need a subsequent visit. They supply primary care services to many care homes in Thamesmead now.

- Recommendation 6: It is essential that a good relationship is built between the care home and the primary care provider. Clover Health Centre has to be responsive and Brook House must be able to reach the provider easily especially in an emergency.

Food and nutrition

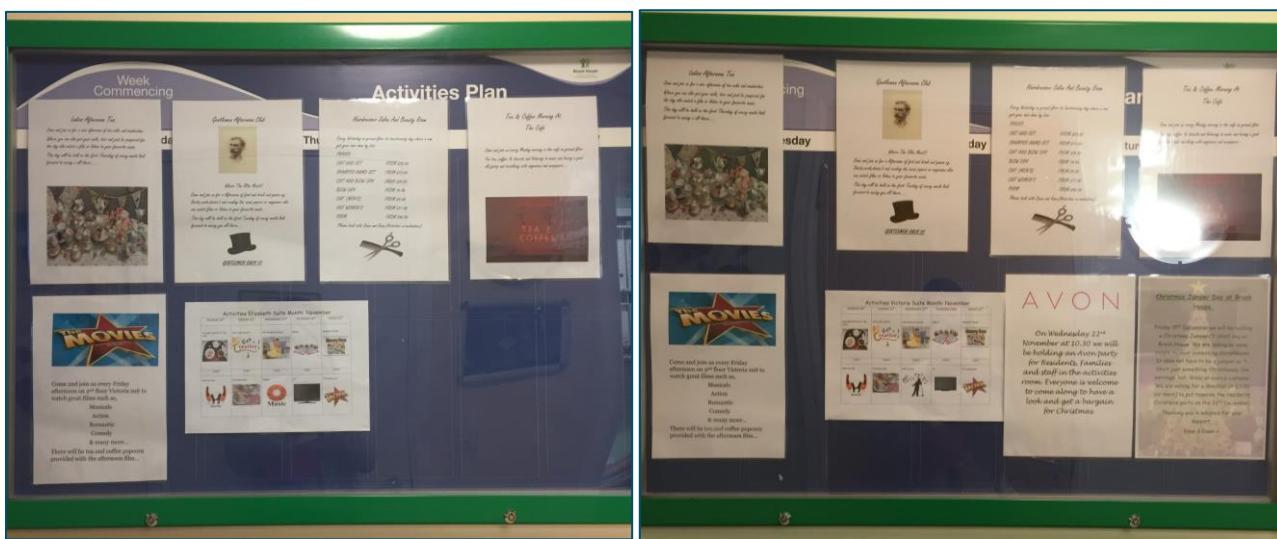

There seemed to be a good choice available on the menu with standard options should the variations not be appealing. The menu is displayed in each dining room for residents to view throughout the day. Resident's care plans include important information for e.g. allergies, if they are diabetic, if they require pureed food or have personal preferences with their food. This information is also displayed on a whiteboard in the kitchen. The food is prepared by the kitchen staff on site and then transported to the dining room areas. Drinks are available all day by calling the staff if the resident is in their room or they can ask a staff member while they are in the lounge areas. Residents can choose to have their breakfast in bed if wanted. Meal times are protected so visitors are asked not to visit during mealtimes. However, family members can request to assist their relatives with eating if this is desired.

Pictorial menu and signage

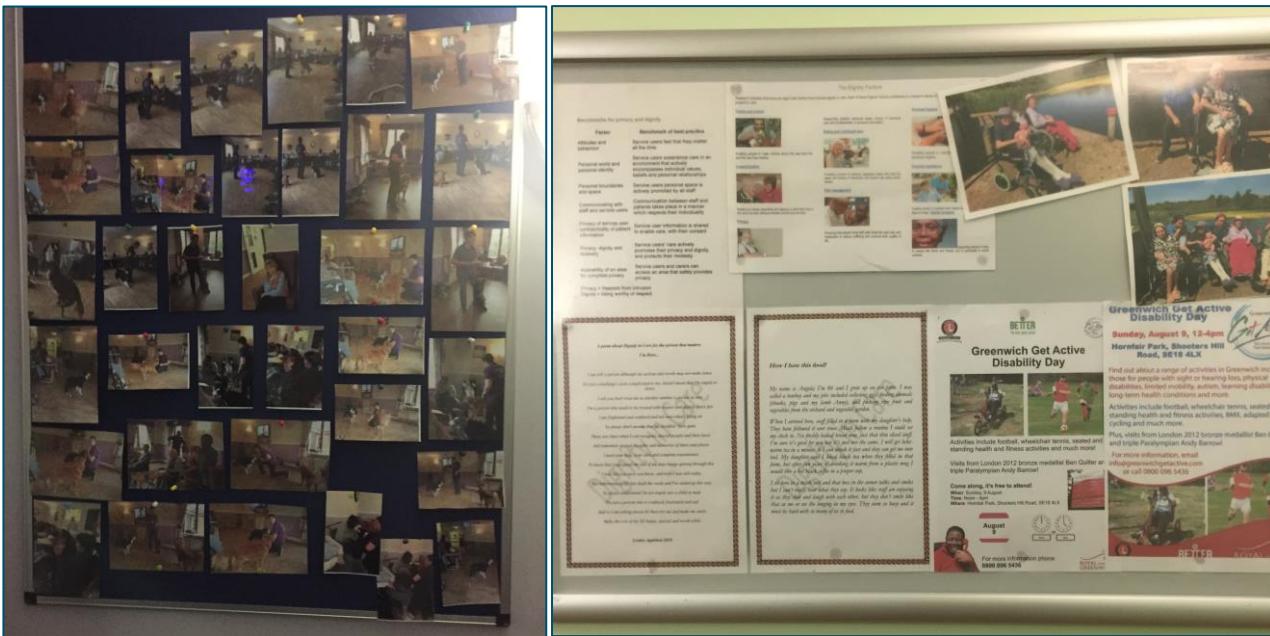

Activities, outings and general well-being

The activity programme at Brook House was very full and displayed throughout the building. They have full-time staff employed to ensure a diverse range of activities and events for the residents to take part in. The staff know the residents well and know what activities are the most popular but also try out new things to see if they are popular. It is also encouraged for residents from any suite to take part all together. We saw many displays of photos taken of residents taking part in some of the recent activities.

An activity board which could be found on each suite

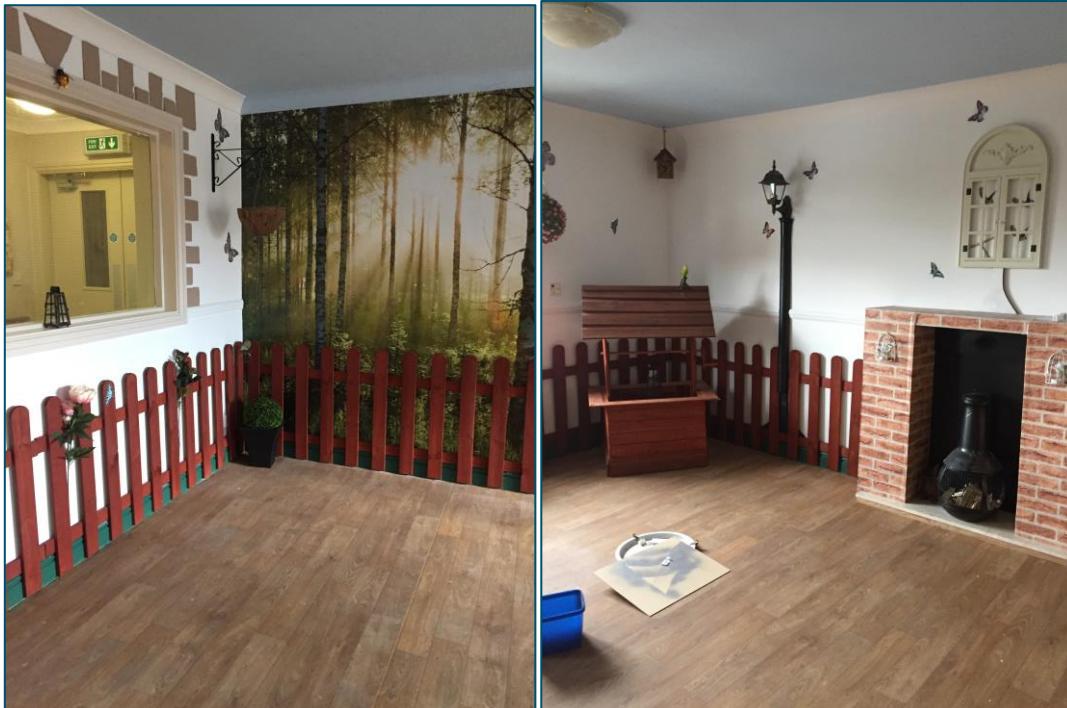

Outings can be more difficult as the home does not have a mini bus. The cost of hiring transport is high and therefore is not always an option. Staff do what they can to arrange visits, but these can be limited to how many residents can go. The staff go over and above, on a limited budget, to ensure the residents have support and activities that they enjoy throughout the week. Due to resident's requests, the team had arranged an Avon event as it is coming up to the Christmas period.

Two examples of photos of residents taking part in activities and events

There is a hairdresser who comes every Wednesday to the home. Appointments can be pre-booked with a price list available for different treatments. Holistic therapies are also arranged upon request. The home holds a catholic communion every Tuesday for resident's and the Vine Church comes on the third Saturday of every month.

On the second floor Victoria Suite, which is for dementia care, staff are creating an indoor sensory garden. This has not yet been created but we were really impressed with the work so far.

Outdoor space/garden

Brook House has an open space which is accessible from the lower ground floor. It is well maintained, accessible, safe and with adequate seating. The Diane Wing have doors which lead out into the garden from the dining room and lounge. There is a no smoking policy in place at the home but there is a designated smoking area outside.

Service provider response

All providers are given the opportunity to review our Enter and View reports prior to publication, check for factual accuracy and provide a formal response.

No comments were received from the service provider by the time of publication.
